>Bio:

Wenqi is a senior student of Education Studies major with a certificate in Mathematics. She is interested in data analysis in educational fields, especially in bilingual education. She loves to make digital paintings to show feelings in her free time.

>Experiences:

Even though I am not an art major students, I still love to use art to express myself. having my own blog communicating and sharing my educational experience, I would also need to use Photoshop and Indesign to edit and edit pictures and layout.

Most of the time I will use procreate for painting, especially for non-professional students like me, The painting tools and materials around us may not be enough, so painting software like this is particularly suitable for me. I especially love to create some paintings through tutorial videos on youtube and I also draw some avatars for my friends using procreate.

>Interests:

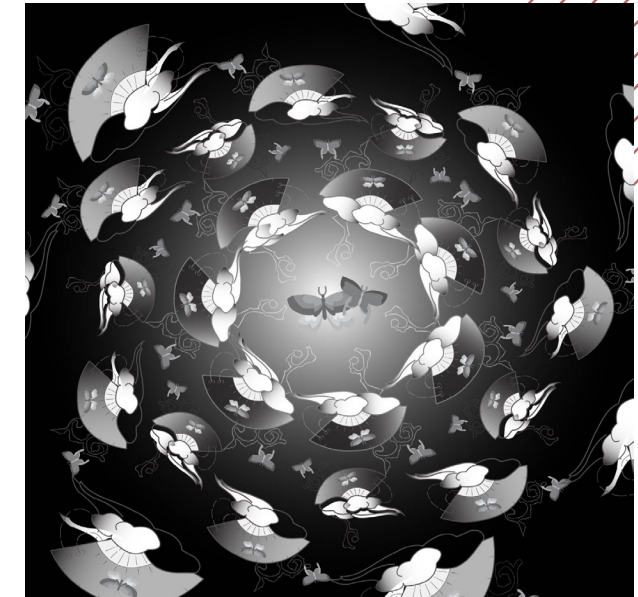

My interest is to use to let everyone can use art to express themselves. When I was young, I always think I am bad at painting. But I find that painting and designing can actually ease your stress. So I really want to use my experience to show other people that even though you are not good at painting, art is still a form for you to express yourselves.

>Influences

In fact, some of my ideas for composition or painting come from freelance photographers on Instagram. The photographer is very accurate in the structure of the space, so in my spare time, I will also read these photographer posts to find inspiration

>Goals:

My goal is to be able to further improve my drawing level and increase practice time. Because some advanced techniques are strengthened by constant training. I also hope to share my experience as a novice to others who want to try Adobe but dare not try.
